

DB Sales Sold to HVAC Sales Professional; Plan to Expand Offerings

GARDEN GROVE, CA, November 2 2010 — DB Sales, a 35-year old HVAC sales and service company, has been purchased from the original owner by Steve Mertz. Mertz, who has more than 15 years of experience in the HVAC industry, is purchasing the assets of the company, which is based in Garden Grove, CA.

For the past eight years Mertz has worked for R.F. McDonald, a large sales and service company for boilers and pumps. He was the top sales engineer for the company. Mertz previously worked as a senior applications engineer for Perry Equipment Company, Designers and manufacturers of filtration, flow measurement and metering systems.

He commented, “My vision is to build on the long history of the company, delivering superior customer service to DB’s established client base. Also, we will be expanding the product line with an emphasis on adding manufacturers who provide high efficiency products for sustainable building that comply with the rigorous energy efficiency and high efficiency standards within California.”

Mertz has a BSME in mechanical engineering from Bucknell University in Lewisburg, PA.
